MISSES' EMPIRE WRAPPER.

Dainty Little Morning Gown for a Young Girl.

Misses' Empire Wrapper. No. 795-Turquoise blue and white dimity is here daintily trimmed with tucked white lawn and blue taffeta ribbons.

The short lining is faced to a pointed yoke depth, back and front, with the tucking. The garment is adjusted with shoulder and underarm seams.

The back is gathered and arranged at the lower edge of the yoke, the fullness being in the center, and a smooth, well-fitting effect obtained over the shoulders. The fronts are adjusted in a similar manner, the wrapper retaining a plain, straight outline under the arms.

Blue taffeta ribbon is applied to trim the yoke, a rosette being placed back and front where the fullness comes. The closing is effected invisibly in the center front.

The sleeves are comfortably loose, with slight gathers at the shoulders. The wrists are finished with a fall of lace, surmounted by a ribbon, which is tied in a small bow.

The lower edge is turned up in a deep hem, machine stitched.

This mode is appropriate for lawn, percale, gingham, challie or outing flanned. The ribbon may be omitted or the yoke made of the same fabric as the wrapper, outlined with braid or gimp, if a plainer effect is desired.

To make the wrapper in the medium size will require four and five-eighths yards of 28-inch material. The pattern, No. 7855, is cut in sizes for misses 19, 12, 14 and 16 years.

Child's Coat With Adjustable Shield, No. 7991—Heavy white pique is here elaborately trimmed with all-over embroidery and pique eiging.

The broad, scamless back joins the front with shoulder and slightly curved side back seams in box effect.

The double-breasted fronts lap widely, the right side crossing the left, fastening with pearl buttons and loops.

The stylish sailor collar forms broad, rounded revers, edged with a frill of pique embroidery.

The sleeves are comfortably loose, with slight fullness distributed in gathers at the shoulder. The lower edge is trimmed in cuff effect, with a band of embroidery, surmounted by a frill.

The shield is finished with a narrow band at the neck, and is made separate so that
